Awaken Your Possibilities

Have you ever had one of those moments where your subconscious mind seemed to compel your body to action? I was traveling over the holidays and had an early morning flight that required a 4:30 a.m. wake up. I double-checked the clock before I went to sleep to make sure I had the alarm set and tried to squeeze in as much shut-eye as I could before it started beeping.

At one point, I rolled over to check my phone and discovered it was 4:32 a.m.! The alarm had not gone off because we lost power during the night, yet it was as if my body, or more appropriately, my sub-conscious mind, knew to wake me.

As we rushed around to get ready in the dark, I kept finding myself amazed that my body seemed to know something was "up," or at the very least, that I needed to get up! In fact, researchers at the University of Lubeck in Germany have confirmed that our minds can keep track of things even in an unconscious state.

Feng Shui encourages us to awaken our minds and our bodies to new possibilities and to see things in new ways to enhance our health, our relationships and our businesses. Let me help you wake up to the possibilities that await you in the new year. Contact me today.
